Pharma builds immunity as tariff risks spread

Domestic demand cushions downside, but gains turn selective

NIKITA VASHISHT
New Delhi, 6 April

Pharmaceutical (pharma) stocks have emerged as a defensive bet for investors so far in 2026, cushioning portfolios by falling less than the benchmark Nifty 50 index. The Nifty Pharma index is down 3 per cent year-to-date, compared with a 12 per cent drop in the benchmark, according to Ace Equity data.

Analysts said the sector's relative outperformance had been driven by a mix of defensive positioning, rupee depreciation, and improving earnings visibility. However, amid US tariff proposals, gains are likely to be more selective, tilting towards domestically focused companies.

"Pharma's outperformance is partly macro, but more due to improving earnings visibility," said Niharika Agarwal, equity research analyst at InCred Capital. She added that while rupee depreciation continued to support export-oriented earnings, "core markets remain largely insulated from current geopolitical disruptions".

US President Donald Trump has proposed levying a 100 per cent tariff on branded and patented drugs made in countries that lack tariff agreements with the US.

"Generics, which make up the bulk of India's exports, will not attract tariffs for now, limiting downside risks, although sentiment could remain volatile," said Gaurav Tinani, research analyst for healthcare at Ambit Capital. He added that any push towards localised manufacturing in the US could provide a competitive advantage over time.

Patents keep wind at pharma's back

Apart from this, analysts said the ongoing patent expiry cycle in the US is set to open up opportunities in complex generics and specialty products for Indian companies.

Around 10 Indian companies have already introduced semaglu-

Healthy signs

tide products in India following the expiry of the Ozempic (semaglutide) patent. These include Dr Reddy's Laboratories, Sun Pharmaceutical Industries, Zydus Lifesciences, Torrent Pharmaceuticals, Glenmark Pharmaceuticals, Eris Lifesciences, and Lupin.

"We expect aggressive pricing to drive volumes over time, taking the semaglutide market in India to more than ₹12,000 crore over the next five years across diabetes and weight loss. We expect Zydus Life to benefit from differentiated products and tieups, while Alkem Laboratories could gain above-average volume share through aggressive pricing and the launch of a reusable pen," Nomura said.

Dr Reddy's, Torrent, and Sun Pharma may also gain above-average market share, it added.

Analysts said the patent expiry cycle could also drive increased outsourcing and selective mergers and acquisitions by global pharma firms, benefiting Indian contract development and manufacturing organisations.

The Indian pharma market grew 12.4 per cent year-on-year in February 2026, marking a third consecutive month of double-digit expansion, supported by price hikes and new product launches.

Iran tensions cast a near-term shadow

That said, analysts warned that the Indian pharma sector exports about 5 per cent of its output to West Asia. Lower exports and higher freight costs could crimp revenues and margins in the near term.

While rupee depreciation has supported earnings so far, Chokkalingam G, founder and managing director of Equinomics Research, cautioned that the tailwind may not last. "Once the Iran conflict eases, the rupee could appreciate to some extent," he said.

Stock picking, not sector chasing

Given the evolving landscape, Agarwal of InCred Capital views pharma as a relative hedge but not a broad allocation call.

"The easier rerating is behind us, and incremental returns will come from buying into earnings dislocations with visibility on recovery, rather than owning the entire sector," she said.

She recommends Sun Pharma for its consistent earnings profile, Divi's Laboratories for long-term visibility, and Cipla and Piramal Pharma as recovery plays in the second half of the year.

Tinani prefers Sun Pharma, Dr Reddy's, and Eris Lifesciences, citing strong domestic franchises and research and development capabilities.

Chokkalingam favours Mankind Pharma and Torrent due to their relatively lower exposure to the US market.

CLAIM REJECTIONS IN HEALTH INSURANCE

Disclose existing conditions, past treatments, lifestyle habits to avoid denial

SANJAY KUMAR SINGH & KARTHIK JEROME

Complaints related to health insurance claims are rising. According to data presented by Minister of State for Finance Pankaj Choudhury, 64,365 complaints were registered on the Bima Bharosa portal in 2024-25 (FY25). This figure had already touched 73,729, 14.5 per cent higher than the previous year, in 11 months of FY26.

Why claims are rejected

Claim rejection often stems from a poor understanding of policy terms. "Many policyholders do not understand that non-medical expenses, cosmetic treatments, and certain other procedures are not covered by health insurance policies," says Arun Ramamurthy, co-founder, Staywell.Health.

Non-disclosure of pre-existing diseases, like diabetes, high blood pressure, thyroid disorders, and so on, or past treatments can result in denial of claim. Claiming during a waiting period may also result in rejection. Claims may also not be paid if the treatment does not meet the insurer's criteria for medical necessity. A lapsed policy, fraud, or discrepancies in documents can also trigger a denial.

Why claims are partially paid out

Partial claim settlements usually arise because the policy comes with certain restrictions. Room rent caps can trigger proportionate deductions across the entire bill. "If the policyholder chooses a room category above the permitted limit, that can reduce the payout by 20-40 per cent," says Saurabh Vijay-Vergia, founder and chief executive officer (CEO), CoverSure.

Co-pay clauses, sub-limits on specific treatments, and exclusion of consumables can lower the payout. "Differences in package rates with the hospital can also result in partial settlement," says Ramamurthy.

Pre-purchase checks

Understand what the policy

Loan against PPF: Who can borrow, limits, rates, and repayment rules

A loan against your Public Provident Fund (PPF) can offer low-cost liquidity, but only within a limited window and under strict rules set by the Ministry of Finance.

What is a loan against PPF?

It allows you to borrow against your PPF balance instead of breaking your long-term savings. This makes it a cheaper alternative to personal loans, while your core investment stays intact.

When and who can avail it?

The facility is available only between the third and sixth financial year after opening the account. After this, partial withdrawals are allowed; loans are no longer permitted.

covers and its exclusions, instead of blindly going for the cheapest policy.

A suitable policy should preferably have no room rent cap, minimal or no sub-limits, and low or no co-pay. "Check whether the policy offers restoration benefit, has short waiting periods for pre-existing diseases, and provides access to a strong hospital network," says Ramamurthy.

Make full disclosures

Many claim disputes occur because policyholders did not disclose all relevant information in the proposal form. "People skip mentioning existing conditions and past treatments," says Vijay Vergia. Some fail to mention information regarding lifestyle habits, such as smoking or alcohol consumption. Buyers should also disclose existing policies.

Avoiding disputes in reimbursement claims

Sometimes, a major hospital may not be part of your insurer's network. "That may be because the

Documents you should have

- At admission: Policy copy or health card, identity proof, doctor's prescription, admission notes and advice
- At discharge: Itemised hospital bills, discharge summary with diagnosis details, diagnostic reports, pharmacy bills with prescriptions, payment receipts, implant details, KYC documents
- Complete, signed, error-free original documents and accurately filled and signed claim form insurer has concerns about its charges," says Kapil Mehta, co-founder, SecureNow Insurance Broker.

Policyholders should prefer network hospitals whenever possible. "If they opt for a non-network hospital, they should be prepared for reimbursement instead of cashless treatment," says Shilpa Arora, co-founder and chief operating officer, Insurance Samadhan.

Before getting admitted, inform the insurance company or third-party administrator (TPA). "Submit a claim file within 30 days of discharge," says Arora. She adds that the claim form should be filled out accurately, with all details, and be accompanied by original documents.

If claim is fully or partially rejected

After rejecting a claim or making a partial settlement, the insurer must issue a detailed settlement letter explaining what has not been paid and why. "The insurer should list even small rejected items separately and state the reasons for not settling them," says Mehta.

Before escalating the matter, approach the insurer's grievance redressal officer for clarification and reconsideration. "If that does not resolve the matter, escalate the complaint to the regulator via the Bima Bharosa portal," says Mehta. If that also fails, file a complaint with the insurance ombudsman.

Civil and consumer courts are an option, but the process is usually lengthy. "If the claim amount exceeds ₹50 lakh and falls outside the ombudsman's jurisdiction, approach a consumer court," says Arora.
